Dear Families,

Our class is about to begin a month-long social studies and literature unit focused on social issues, culture, and mission. As we explore God's mission for us to spread the gospel to the entire world, we will spend time discovering the concepts of personal identities, learning how sharing with others and selflessness both make a difference and change lives, and how optimism and a positive outlook helps us recover hope after loss. The theme of this unit is "I'm on a Mission!" For this unit we will read the following books:

- Jalapeño Bagels
- A Box for Jairo
- Beatrice's Goat
- Four Feet Two Sandals
- Jungle Thorn

As children learn these valuable concepts, we will reinforce the concepts of sharing, selflessness, and witnessing through participation in a mission project to learn about the importance of sharing Jesus to help change lives.

At the end of the month, students will participate in

We will need parent volunteers for this event so please feel free to sign up.

It has been a pleasure teaching your child and watching your child grow this school year!

Thank you for your continued support,
