I. GENERAL INFORMATION

Introduction

Welcome to the educational system of the Southern Union Conference of Seventh-day Adventists. You are joining one of the finest groups of educators in the Adventist Church.

This Employment Manual draws the major employment policies related to educational personnel from the Southern Union Education Codebook (hereinafter referred to as Education Code). Employees have access to a complete copy of the Education Code in the local school office and on the Adventist EDGE Website at www.adventistedge.com. The Education Code also contains policies relating to the establishment, maintenance, administration and operation of schools. Employees have the right to see any other policies that impact them by consulting with the local conference superintendent or the academy principal.

The Education Code is based upon policies enacted by the Southern Union Conference Executive Committee and the Board of Education. The policies are in agreement with policies approved by the North American Division of Seventh-day Adventists. Revisions to this Education Code become effective when voted by the Southern Union Conference Board of Education. The Southern Union Office of Education will distribute revised sections of the Education Code when approved.

The Southern Union Conference Office of Education and the Board of Education are committed to an ongoing review of the policies, regulations, and benefits stated in the Education Code. Therefore, the Education Code is subject to change by the Southern Union Conference Executive Committee and the Board of Education. This Education Code shall not be modified by subordinate entities or personnel.

Local conferences and schools also develop policies unique to their own settings which are in agreement with the Education Code and Southern Union policies. The local and union conferences reserve the right to withhold subsidies from entities who act in willful violation of published codes.

Objectives of Seventh-day Adventist Education

Elementary and Secondary Education. The Seventh-day Adventist Church desires to provide for all its youth a general education within the framework of the science of salvation. The fundamentals and common branches of knowledge are to be studied so that proficiency is achieved and a high quality of teaching is maintained.

The Seventh - day Adventist elementary school will assist each child to develop (1) a love and appreciation for the privileges, rights, and responsibilities guaranteed each individual and social group and (2) a wholesome respect and attitude for each unit of society—home, church, school, and government. The elementary school will offer an organized program to ensure adequate development leading toward total spiritual, physical, mental, and emotional health and a basic core of skills and knowledge for everyday living.

The Seventh - day Adventist secondary school, predicated on the results obtained through the elementary school with character building as an undergirding structure, will endeavor to operate realistically for each student in the upgrading and maintenance of health, in the command of fundamental learning processes, in the teaching of worthy home membership, vocational skills, civic education, worthy use of leisure, and ethical maturity. The secondary school implementing the Church philosophy will seek for objectives of spiritual dedication, self-realization, social adjustment, civic responsibility, and economic efficiency. (NAD Working Policy FEA 05 15)

Seventh-day Adventist Philosophy of Education

The Seventh-day Adventist Church recognizes God as the ultimate source of existence, truth, and power. In the beginning God created in His image, a perfect humanity, a perfection later marred by sin. Education in its broadest sense is a means of returning human beings to their original relationship with God. The distinctive characteristics of this Adventist worldview, built around creation the fall, redemption, and recreation, are derived from the Bible and the inspired writings of Ellen G. White.

The aim of true education is to restore human beings into the image of God as revealed by the life of Jesus Christ. Only through the guidance of the Holy Spirit can this be accomplished. An education of this kind imparts far more than academic knowledge. It fosters a balanced development of the whole person – spiritual, physical, intellectual, and social emotional – a process that spans a lifetime. Working together, homes, schools, centers, and churches cooperate with divine agencies in preparing learners for citizenship here in this world and for eternity.

Journey to Excellence Goals of Seventh-day Adventist Education

The following goals and benchmarks have been established for each student to support the unique philosophy of Seventh-day Adventist education:

Note: Please refer to the document Journey to Excellence, A Focus on Adventist Education in the 21st Century for a complete listing of elements designed to aid in goal achievement.

Adventist EDGE General Information

The Adventist EDGE is a Southern Union Conference initiative for the comprehensive improvement of Adventist education birth through grade 12 and sets the course for excellence in all areas. This initiative is aligned with the North American Division Journey to Excellence which was officially launched in 2002. It focuses on the essential core elements that identify the high expectations of what students should know and be able to do. The Adventist EDGE components are based on Seventh-day Adventist standards, Seventh-day Adventist preferred practices, national standards, and national best practices that support an effective ongoing school improvement process.

To ensure that the needs of the whole child are met, Adventist EDGE educators honor the natural cycle of learning. The natural cycle begins by connecting with the child's experience, moving on to provide information, instruction and practice, and culminating with a celebration of new learning. In keeping with the Seventh-day Adventist philosophy of encouraging students to be thinkers and not mere reflectors of other men's thoughts, Adventist EDGE educators follow a constructivist philosophy. This philosophy encourages students to use active techniques (experiments, explorations, and real-life problem solving) to expand their knowledge and enhance their understanding of the world. It is crucial that dialogue and collaboration take place in the Adventist EDGE process. In classrooms and schools, students process what they are learning and reflect on how their knowledge and understanding changes.

The pivotal factor of Adventist EDGE teaching is respect for the learning style of each student and a desire to inclusively meet individual needs. Exemplary Adventist education seeks to develop a life of faith and understanding of God, life-long love for learning, and respect for the dignity of all human beings. By planning curriculum, instruction and assessment which truly honors the natural cycle of learning, Adventist EDGE educators lead all students to be successful while valuing the Creator of the universe, themselves and others.

The Adventist EDGE Comprehensive School Improvement Initiative is an intentional collaborative effort by Southern Union Conference educators to ensure the implementation of the North American Division 2002 Journey to Excellence document. The Journey to Excellence is based on the North American Division Focus on Adventist Curriculum for the 21st Century (FACT 21) 1997 Document.

Nondiscrimination Exception - Employment

For Seventh-day Adventists the free exercise of religion includes the right to operate educational institutions that are distinctively Seventh-day Adventist. The creation and maintenance of such institutions require that they be staffed only by those individuals who are in complete harmony with the beliefs and practices of the Church. Hence, in the employment of personnel for its educational institutions one of the occupational qualifications for any position is that the individual must be a Seventh-day Adventist, committed to the program of the Church.

School boards shall, officially and in practice, abide by the following policies relating to employment:

1. Equal employment opportunities shall be afforded to all on the basis of qualifications, without regard to race, color, gender, national origin, ancestry, physical handicap, age, height, weight, marital status (single, married, or widowed), or prior military service.
2. Inasmuch as the personal life and the professional identity of an individual are inseparable, all employees are expected to conform to the standards of conduct that are in harmony with Seventh-day Adventist principles. (NAD Working Policy FEA 05 30)

II. EMPLOYMENT POLICIES

EMPLOYMENT PHILOSOPHY

The basic teachings and international nature of the Seventh-day Adventist Church require that its institutions be committed in philosophy and practice to the doctrine of equal human rights. The Church insists that all persons should be given full and equal opportunity within the Church to develop the knowledge and skills needed for the up-building of the Church. Employment on all levels of church activity is, therefore, open on the basis of qualifications, without regard to race, color, sex, age, national origin or disability. Seventh-day Adventist educational institutions also comply with applicable state laws and local ordinances regarding non-discrimination. In choosing and following a career, a person acquires a role determined chiefly by himself. It is he who decides his beliefs, creed and church affiliation which are rights guaranteed each citizen by the Constitution of the United States.

For Seventh-day Adventists the right to free exercise of the SDA religion includes the right to operate educational institutions that are distinctively Seventh-day Adventist. Creating and maintaining such institutions require that they be staffed only by those who are in complete harmony with the beliefs and practices of the Church. Therefore, in employing personnel for its educational institutions, one of the occupational qualifications for any full-time position is that the applicant shall be a Seventh-day Adventist in regular standing, who exhibits a life in harmony with church teachings.

When an administrator is at the point of obtaining formal references or interviewing a prospective educational employee, the prospective employee's current administrator or conference office of education must be notified. The prospective employer must be careful to inquire from the current or previous employer of possible indebtedness according to NAD Working Policy # E 45 72.

If a prospective employee has not signed an employment agreement with the current employer for the next year, another educational institution or conference is free to offer the prospective employee an employment agreement without the current employer blocking the call. However, if the employee has signed an employment agreement for the next school year with the employee's current employer, the calling party must have the consent of the administrator or conference office of education before contacting an employee for an interview or placing a call.

Every effort should be made on the part of school administrators to cooperate with the General Conference in filling emergency overseas calls which may arise at any time for teachers or employees working in denominational schools.

In case of administrative transfer for classified employees, the employing organization shall make a reasonable effort to assist the employee in securing other comparable denominational employment.

With the permission and cooperation of the employee, this may include sharing the resume of the transferring employee with local school boards where a vacancy exists.

NOTE: The employing organization cannot guarantee employment for the transferring employee.

REDUCTION IN FORCE

If low enrollment or lack of fund or other circumstances, create financial or operational difficulties for a local school, the employing organization may make a reasonable reduction in force (RIF) among employees assigned to a particular school or academy.

When a RIF is being considered the local school board, administration, local conference superintendent, and local conference human resources director will coordinate efforts to identify the classification/type of position(s) that will be affected by a necessary reduction in workforce. The local school board or academy board will submit final recommendations to be voted by the local Conference Board of Education. Every effort should be made to inform employees in advance that a reduction in force is being considered.

1. Types of Reductions

- a. Position elimination. Position eliminations involve situations when a particular teacher position can be eliminated entirely. (Example: The Fine Arts teacher position can be eliminated because the class will no longer be taught due to low enrollment).
- b. Position downsizing. Position downsizing involves situations when a teacher or staff position is being reduced but not entirely eliminated. (Example: Reducing two English teachers' positions to one).

The termination settlement policy does not apply.

A resignation must be recognized by the employing organization by being recorded in the official minutes of the controlling board.

Resignation without reasons acceptable to the Conference Board of Education shall be considered a breach of the annual assignment agreement, and shall result in an appropriate notation made on the employee's service record and/or any other appropriate action which the employing organization deems necessary under the circumstances.

REPAYMENT OF PREPAID SALARY

Repayment of prepaid salary given in the summer before the employee actually begins work; salary advance, and/or unamortized expenses will be required before a release is given. The 10-month daily rate shall be based upon the 220 days within the employment period. BENEFITS

1. Assistance

When an employee is requested by the employing organization to move to a new location or a person is being called into denominational service, the employer may provide the following assistance:

- a. An amount to cover freight/van charges and insurance up to maximums established by the employer.
- b. Travel expense and a per diem as per current NAD WP Y 23 and 100% of the regular mileage allowance to move the employee's car or up to two cars for the employee and spouse to the new location of employment.
- c. A flat amount rounded up to the nearest $10 to cover packing and other moving costs as follows:

Employee	16.5% of remuneration factor
Spouse	16.5% of remuneration factor

A single parent with dependent children may be granted 33% of remuneration factor as a moving allowance.

- d. Automobile Registration and Excise Tax
Employees who are called to another state and who are required to pay duplicate excise tax/sales tax, license, and certification/inspection fees may report such expenses on one car if they register their car within 90 days of moving to the new area. If the employee has a spouse, the above expenses may also be reported on a second car.
- e. In cases where it may be necessary to negotiate a bridge loan in order to secure a home at the new location, the bridge loan interest may be reimbursed by the new employer for the same time period during which the employee is eligible to receive duplicate housing allowances in addition to the duplicate and special housing allowance. This bridge loan interest would be considered outside of the ceiling for which special assistance may be given.
- f. Under applicable Internal Revenue Service regulations all moving expense for an employee shall be classified as taxable income.

2. Maximum Assistance

The allowances referred to in b, c, and d shall be limited to two vehicles and two flat moving allowances per family even though both spouses are employed.

3. Sharing Moving Expenses

When calls are extended to a husband and wife to join two different denominational institutional organizations in the same area, the cost of moving shall be shared by the calling organizations. However, when the initial call is for one spouse and the other spouse obtains employment, the organization that initiates the primary call shall be responsible for the full cost of the move.

4. Tax Law Changes for 2018—With the tax law changes in 2018 in the United States, making all of the moving expenses/reimbursements taxable, the employing organization may offer up to 35% for the tax assistance on the total allowable moving expense to cover the additional taxes due from the employee move. This is retroactive to January 1, 2018. This policy would also apply to the sponsored seminary students and retiring employees.

PARSONAGE ALLOWANCE—CERTIFICATED PERSONNEL

Ordained or licensed ministers serving in an educational setting are eligible for the minister's parsonage allowance. The minister's parsonage allowance is tax free. To be eligible for this exemption from income, an estimate of parsonage expenses shall be submitted to the employing organization prior to the year for which the exclusion is requested or at the time of employment, if during the requested tax year.

A report of actual expense for the year shall be submitted to the employing organization at the end of the calendar year. The actual amount (provided it is not larger than the current maximum or larger than the estimate submitted) shall be deducted from the salary amount listed on the W-2 form. No actual entries for this amount are required in the accounting records. Contact the local conference for forms to use in reporting parsonage allowance.

HOUSE RENTALS FOR ACADEMIES —CERTIFICATED PERSONNEL

To establish fair market rental rates for educational personnel who are required to live in school-owned housing, the following policy is recommended:

1. Each school will secure the services of a qualified appraisal firm from the community to study and report on each housing unit to determine a minimum and maximum rental rate for local accommodations of equal quality.
2. The average of the minimum and maximum rental rates will be used in computing a fair rental value. In no case shall the rate exceed the conference rent policy ceiling.
3. Each academy board will establish the rental rates, and adjustments will be made as policy provides. The rate of rent charged shall be at least 75% of the community rate.
4. Any adjustment in salary will necessitate an adjustment in rent charges on a percentage basis. Example: Should the total package salary increase 2% for whatever reason, the rent rate would reflect a 2% increase also.

SPECIAL RENT ALLOWANCE—CERTIFICATED PERSONNEL

A special rent allowance in areas designated as high cost of living areas shall be paid to certificated employees in harmony with conference and union guidelines.

SPECIAL HOMEOWNER'S ASSISTANCE—CERTIFICATED PERSONNEL

Employees who are currently receiving special rent assistance or who are living in a high-cost housing area and do not own their own residence may be eligible for a special homeowner assistance on a home purchase on a one-time basis according to conference and union guidelines established for this purpose.

HOUSING ASSISTANCE

1. Duplicate Housing

When an employee is moved from one location to another, and because of the conditions of the lease, failure to sell or rent home, or other significant cause, the employee is required to pay housing expenses both at the former location and at the new location, an allowance may be granted to cover the time when payments were being made at both locations and both homes are habitable. The allowance may be granted under normal conditions up to three months.

2. Unusual Circumstances

In unusual circumstances, when the employee has not been able to sell the home at the former location and evidence is presented indicating that the asking price for said home at the end of the three-month period referred to above was no greater than 100% of an appraisal provided by an independent appraiser, up to an additional three months' assistance may be granted.

An independent appraiser shall be understood to be a qualified appraiser such as may be contacted through banks or home loan associations. Real estate agents shall specifically be excluded from this group. The reasonable cost of such appraisal will be reimbursed by the employing organization.

3. Extreme Circumstances

If the employee has not been able to sell the home after having received an allowance for six months because of extreme circumstances, the allowance may be continued for a further period of up to six months if the asking price for the said home is not more than 95% of the appraisal during this period.

4. Amount

When granted, the allowance monthly shall be the actual expense for principal and interest, property taxes, and insurance up to 100% of the cost factor (housing/ utilities/property tax of the Relocation Analysis Report) as indicated by ERI/Statistics Canada for which the employee was eligible at the former location. Fifty percent of any rental income shall be deducted from the allowance.

5. Sharing of Loss on Sale

In view of the importance of pricing a home correctly before it is placed on the market, and due to the critical importance of the first 30 days in the sale of the property, both the employee and the new employer may agree at any time during the selling process that in lieu of spending all the duplicate housing allowance provided in items one through four the property may be placed for sale at less than one hundred percent of market value as determined by the current appraisal. The cost of the reduction may be shared between the new employer and the employee at an agreed upon ration on an individual basis. The employer cost is not to exceed the maximum duplicate housing allowance provision.

6. Purchase of Employee's Home

If in the course of transitioning an employee from one location to another, the employing organization decides that it is in its best interest to acquire the home where the employee currently lives, in order to facilitate the relocation of the individual to the new job assignment, the employing organization may exercise that option with the approval of the governing committee and where applicable, the association or corporation. The home shall be appraised by a third party, and the price will be set excluding realtor fees.

7. Coordination of Benefits
The employing organization should discuss the options available to the employee, and should avoid the unnecessary multiple application of the provisions of this policy.

SPECIAL PROJECTS OR ASSIGNMENTS—CERTIFICATED PERSONNEL

When employees are asked to complete special projects, they will be paid at a weekly rate for the actual time of the assignment. The amount to be paid is 14% of the 100% wage factor of Category A for each week of work. ELEMENTARY TEACHING LOAD

While the grade load and student load numbers outlined in this policy are considered the minimum requirements necessary for quality instruction to occur, it should be noted that specific student needs and classroom composition, along with a teacher’s expertise and experience level, should factor strongly in the number cap/cut-off to ensure that a quality educational program can thrive in any given classroom. Factors such as number of English Language Learners (ELL) and other special needs students enrolled in class can lower the cut-off numbers outlined in this policy to maintain the appropriate instructional quality of our education system. The final teacher load decision should be made in consultation between the school principal/teacher and the local Conference Office of Education. Part-time employment criteria is to be determined by the local conference in collaboration with the conference Human Resource Director.

Multigrade Class Size. The maximum number of grades for multi-grade elementary teachers shall not exceed six. If first grade is included in this combination and more than four grades are taught, five grades shall be the maximum load and a paraprofessional must be provided. The term “multi-grade” refers to classrooms with three or more grades.

The following tables denote the maximum student enrollment allowed for various grade combinations:

TEACHING LOAD FOR JUNIOR ACADEMIES

The recommended maximum teaching load for secondary is six full credit classes [ten private lessons equals 1.0 full credit]. Supervisory or co-curricular duties will be assigned by the school administrator as part of the teacher's professional responsibilities.

In order to secure optimum benefits in secondary education, it is recommended that individual class size should not exceed 30 students except where the content and methods of instruction permit effective work with larger groups.

SECONDARY TEACHING LOAD

The recommended maximum teaching load is six full credit classes [ten private lessons equals 1.0 full credit]. Supervisory or co-curricular duties will be assigned by the school administrator as part of the teacher's professional responsibilities.

AUTHORITY TO EMPLOY CLASSIFIED PERSONNEL

The Conference Board of Education derives its employment authority from the conference Executive Committee. To ensure the effective and orderly operation of the K-12 schools within the conference, the Conference Board of Education delegates certain personnel functions to school boards.

Although the school receives delegated authority from the conference to operate in defined areas, the conference cannot divest itself of its inherent legal obligations. Inasmuch as the Conference Association (in which school ownership rights are invested) remains legally bound by actions of school boards, it is incumbent that there be close cooperation between the school board and the conference office of education in the operation of schools and in all actions taken regarding school personnel.

Since all schools are part of the Seventh-day Adventist school system, they will follow the employment guidelines as established by the sponsoring conference. Employment practices for classified personnel are to be consistent with the Southern Union Employment Manual.

The conference office of education delegates authority for certain functions to the local School or Academy board. These delegated authorities may include overseeing the hiring process including job postings, application processing, referencing, interviewing, and selecting; evaluations; supervision; authorizing timesheets; discipline/probation. Any discontinuation of employment shall be effected in consultation with the conference office of education. The conference will have the final authority regarding a local School or Academy board's decisions that are appealed by an employee.

Wages, benefits (i.e. vacation, sick leave, holidays), and probationary periods are established by the conference in consultation with the school board and principal in harmony with state and federal laws.

PARAPROFESSIONAL, EDUCATIONAL4885

School boards may seek the services of paraprofessionals (formerly identified as teacher aides) to assist the professional teachers. (See conference or Union Office of Education for guidelines for paraprofessionals.)

1. Procedures

A school's decision to employ educational paraprofessionals should be made only after a careful study of the total educational needs. Such a study should include the involvement of the conference office of education, school administration, and faculty. The study should include the following areas:

- a. Specific tasks to be accomplished by a paraprofessional
 - b. Development of written job descriptions, which describe the scope of the role and enumerate the specific duties and activities to be performed
- Determine a fair wage amount

2. Qualifications

- a. The term paraprofessional should mean a non-certified person who works for the certified professional staff in a support capacity (non-instructional aide) or one who works beside a professional teacher in a supportive role in the administrative setting (instructional aide).

- b. Paraprofessionals should be members of the Seventh-day Adventist church and committed to the program of the church. Persons placed in direct supervision of children must be at least 18 years of age.

- c. Assisting pupils in the use of learning machines, answering information-seeking inquiries of pupils, and, in general, performing such instructional services as delegated by the teacher.

VOLUNTEERS/TASKFORCE WORKERS

Some schools use the services of volunteer workers. Under the Department of Labor regulations, and for use in our educational institutions, a volunteer is not considered an employee if the volunteer:

1. Performs hours of service for a public agency for civic, charitable or humanitarian reasons, without promise, expectation or receipt of compensation for services rendered. Although a volunteer may not receive compensation, a volunteer can be reimbursed for expenses, or provided per diem;
2. Offers services freely and without pressure or coercion, direct or implied; and
3. Is not otherwise employed by the same entity to perform the same type of services as those for which the individual proposes to volunteer.

A clear understanding of an individual's offer to provide assistance freely without an expectation of being compensated for ministry in a church or school is a key factor to determining volunteer status. The organization may reimburse expenses or provide per diem following NAD guidelines. Written acknowledgement would be helpful in insuring that expectations are clearly communicated and mutually understood.

All volunteers must be screened by a credible, independent agency and pass a background check. Some long-term volunteers are called Task Force Workers. If these volunteers are students who have taken off a year from their college work there are specific guidelines to be followed. The program is operated by the Adventist Volunteer Service in the North American Division, working in conjunction with Adventist colleges and universities. The school administrator should work closely with these entities to assure that all policies are met. The program is detailed in the NAD Working Policy R 05. Each college or university can also help administrators who are interested in the program. Task Force Workers must meet the legal test for classification as volunteers.

In cases of positive diagnosis, the employee must utilize sick leave until a medical determination is made by health authorities and written documentation verifies that the employee no longer poses a threat of infection. Should the disease warrant a long-term exclusion, sick leave policies will go into effect. Consult state department of health or Center for Disease Control websites for communicable disease identification and exclusion guidelines.

RETIREMENT PLAN & BENEFITS4925

The North American Division administers a retirement plan for the benefit of its employees. Prior to January 1, 2000, the retirement plan operated as a defined benefit plan through which employees earned retirement benefit credit based on service. Commencing January 1, 2000, the retirement plan became a defined contribution plan.

Except for specific exceptions as outlined in the NAD Retirement Plan document, service credit earned prior to January 1, 2000, has been “frozen” until the employee becomes eligible for retirement benefits under the terms of the defined benefit plan.

Under the present defined contribution plan, the employer and employee contribute to a personal retirement investment portfolio. The details of the retirement plan are outlined in the NAD Retirement Plan document available from the North American Division of Seventh-day Adventists, 12501 Old Columbia Pike, Silver Spring, MD 20904, or from the employing organization. For questions concerning the retirement plan, contact the conference secretary or human resources office.

The Health Care Assistance Plan (HCAP) is an employer-sponsored health care plan for employees of the Seventh-day Adventist Organizations of the North American Division working in the United States. (Please refer to the North American Division Working Policy Y 22 for the supporting general philosophy of this Plan.) HCAP provides a broad range of benefits for medical, vision, dental, and prescription expenses which the employee and eligible dependents may incur in the United States. In addition, HCAP pays benefits for “emergency” medical expenses incurred anywhere in the world for hospital care, surgery, pre-admission testing and prescription drugs. It also pays a portion of the cost of these medical services according to the Schedule of Benefits. Non-emergency medical services outside the United States are excluded from coverage. The most current HCAP document and Summary of Benefits and Coverage (SBC) can be accessed on the Adventist Risk Management website.

CHILD ABUSE

Child abuse is a criminal offense and must be dealt with as such. This is an area where civil authorities must be contacted so they can investigate the report. In cases of suspected child abuse, the teacher should immediately contact the child protection services of the local county and report to the principal/superintendent. Simply explain that there is reason to believe that a child has been abused. The person who answers the call will ask specific questions. A clear proof of abuse is not necessary. Each conference is responsible for identifying state reporting requirements and informing employees of these procedures.

Guidelines:

1. Instructional personnel must be aware of Federal and State laws involving child abuse.
2. Allegations and suspected abuse must be reported.
3. Information sessions are to be conducted and documented, instructing faculty, staff, and school board members on how to avoid situations that produce allegations and on reporting procedures.

5. Teachers must be informed of implications of child abuse reporting.
6. Superintendents must be notified as to the action taken as soon as possible.

HARASSMENT (NAD WORKING POLICY E 84)

1. Personal Conduct

Employees of denominational organizations are to exemplify the Christ-like life and should avoid all appearance of wrongdoing. They should not for one moment indulge in behavior that is harmful to themselves and others and that casts a shadow on their dedication to the Christian way of life. Personal attire, posters, banners, bumper stickers, tags, flags, and other symbols whose message, historically or currently, is, or could reasonably be construed to be, one of prejudice, discrimination, or that is inflammatory, must not be displayed anywhere on the premises of denominational organizations, or while representing the denomination in any capacity.

2. Mutual Respect

Employees should respect and uplift one another. They must never place another employee in a position of embarrassment, harassment, ridicule, belittlement or disrespect because of their gender, race, color, national origin, age or disability. To do so would be a violation of God's law and the laws of the land which protects human rights in the work place.

3. Sexual Harassment

- a. Sexual harassment by the employer, supervisor(s), coworker(s), and, in some instances, nonemployee(s) includes but is not limited to unwelcome sexual advances, requests for sexual favors, and other verbal, visual, or physical conduct of a sexual nature when:
 - 1) Submission to such conduct is made either explicitly or implicitly a term or condition of an individual's employment; or
 - 2) Submission to or rejection of such conduct by an individual is used as the basis for employment decisions affecting such individual; or
 - 3) Such conduct has the purpose or effect of unreasonably interfering with an individual's work performance or creating an intimidating, hostile, or offensive working environment.
- b. Sexual misconduct encompasses sexual harassment, and may also include but is not limited to the following behaviors:
 - 1) Unwelcome sex-oriented comments (e.g., kidding, teasing, joking, degrading or offensive sexual comments, sexual tricks)
 - 2) Requests or pressure for sexual activity
 - 3) Unnecessary or inappropriate touching of an individual, (e.g. patting, pinching, hugging, repeated brushing against another person's body)
 - 4) Suggestions, threats, or demands for sexual favors
 - 5) Inappropriate visual conduct which creates embarrassment or suggests an interest in sexual activity
 - 6) Possession, manufacture, distribution or access with intent to view child pornography.

For guidelines on processing suspicions and allegations of sexual misconduct see NAD Working Policy E
87

4. Non-Sexual Harassment

Harassment on account of age, gender, race, ethnicity, disability or any other prohibited basis includes but is not limited to the following:

- a. Subjecting employees to derogatory remarks, insults, slurs, jokes, or tricks;
- b. Denying employees opportunities to participate in training or education;
- c. Limiting opportunities for promotion, transfer, or advancement; or
- d. Requiring employees to perform physically more difficult tasks or less desirable work assignments in order to force them to retire or resign from employment.

5. Working Environment

Denominational organizations shall inform their employees that sexual misconduct or harassment in the workplace will not be tolerated. All employees are expected to avoid any unwelcome behavior or conduct toward any other employee which could be interpreted as sexual misconduct or harassment. Each organization shall designate a process by which an employee may lodge a complaint.

6. Reporting Incidents

If an employee encounters sexual misconduct or harassment on account of age, gender, race, ethnicity, or disability from supervisors, fellow employees, clients, or non-employees, the following steps should be taken immediately:

- a. Make it clear that such behavior is offensive and must be stopped immediately.
- b. Report the incident(s) to the appropriate person. The complaint shall be in written form.
- c. The person to whom the complaint is made shall conduct all discussions in an objective and thorough manner, and shall advise the complainant not to discuss the matter elsewhere due to the sensitivity of the complaint. The person to whom the complaint is made shall keep any information received strictly confidential, except as necessary to investigate or rectify the matter.

7. Third-Party Reports

All employees who are aware of incidents of apparent sexual misconduct or harassment on account of age, gender, race, ethnicity, or disability in the work place are responsible for reporting such incidents to the appropriate person for investigation.

8. Investigation

Complaints of sexual misconduct or harassment on account of age, gender, race, ethnicity, or disability shall be investigated promptly. The determination of whether or not a particular action constitutes sexual misconduct or harassment on account of age, gender, race, ethnicity, or disability shall be made from the facts on a case-by-case basis. The person who is authorized to direct the investigation shall inform Adventist Risk Management, Inc. for insurance purposes. The investigation shall include, at a minimum, confidential interviews with all involved persons and written statements regarding the incident(s).

The investigation and results shall be documented in writing and the results shall be reviewed with the complainant and accused employee with an explanation of any corrective action to be taken. All individuals involved shall be cautioned to maintain the investigation and results in strict confidence.

9. Corrective Action

- a. If the investigation indicates that sexual misconduct or harassment has not occurred, the complainant and accused employee shall be notified of the results and cautioned regarding future compliance with the organization's harassment policy. All persons, entities, or organizations which were notified of the indication of these proceedings shall also be notified of the results, to the satisfaction of the administrator conducting the investigation in consultation with the accused.
- b. If sexual misconduct or harassment is found to exist, appropriate officers shall take prompt corrective action. Depending on the severity of act, the discipline may range from a written warning (a copy of which is placed in the offending person's personnel file) to immediate dismissal.

10. No Retaliation

Supervisors and coworkers are prohibited from retaliating, intimidating, or harassing employees who complain of sexual misconduct or harassment on any basis.

CONCILIATION PROCEDURES

1. Purpose

The purpose of this conciliation policy is to promote unity and harmony while reconciling differences that may arise. It outlines a process by which problems may be resolved and a sound employer/ employee relationship strengthened. The emphasis of this policy is placed on candid and open communication between those involved.

The process emphasizes the solution of problems at the level closest to their origin and is based on the premise that each party is interested in fair and just solutions to grievances. These procedures are designed to be an alternative process to the court system where legal representatives are present.

2. Definitions

a. Grievance

A "grievance" shall be any claimed misinterpretation, inequitable application, or violation of the policies or regulations of the school, the local conference, the Southern Union Conference, the North American Division, the General Conference, or state and Federal laws.

- b. Administrator
“Administrator” refers to the immediate supervisor in the chain of command related to the responsibilities of the employee with the grievance. This will generally be the principal or superintendent.
- c. Committee or Board
 - 1) When used with respect to certificated employees, means board of education or a committee designated by the board of education.
 - 2) When used with respect to classified church/school employees, means local boards.

3. Procedures

- a. Step One
An employee with a grievance shall first present it to the immediate administrator in an informal conference within 15 working days of the incident. In cases involving discontinuance of employment, the grievance should also be presented to the superintendent within 15 working days of receiving notification of termination.

- b. Step Two
If the informal conference does not resolve the issue, the employee may present the grievance in writing to the administrator within 15 working days following the informal conference referred to in 'Step One'.
The administrator shall reply in writing to this formal complaint within 15 working days from receipt of written notice, indicating a decision regarding the grievance.
- c. Step Three
If the decision contained in the written response from the administrator in 'Step Two' does not resolve the issue, the employee may appeal the decision by requesting, in writing, within five (5) working days following receipt of the decision, that the matter be referred to the office of education.
 - 1) Certificated: The superintendent, in consultation with the human resources director, will respond in writing within 15 working days.
 - 2) Classified: In the case of classified personnel, appeal will be made to the local school board, in consultation with human resource personnel. The school board will respond within 15 working days.
- d. Step Four
If the decision contained in the written response from the administrator in 'Step Three' does not resolve the issue, the employee may appeal the decision by requesting, in writing, within five (5) working days following receipt of the decision, that the matter be referred to the K-12 board as listed under definitions. A timely request of appeal is to be considered within 30 days following the receipt of the appeal. The decision of the board is to be communicated in writing to the employee within five (5) working days following the decision.

- e. Step Five
If the decision contained in the written response does not resolve the issue, the employee may appeal the decision in writing to the next higher committee/board within the conference within five (5) working days of receipt of the decision. A timely request for appeal is to be considered at the next regular or special meeting following receipt of the appeal. The decision of this committee/board is to be communicated in writing to the employee within five (5) working days following the committee/board meeting. The decision of this committee/ board will be considered as final, except in cases where denominational policies allow for further appeal.

4. General Provisions

- a. The employee shall be given the opportunity to be present at each of the meetings at which an appeal is being considered. The decision regarding the grievance may be made in executive session.
- b. Notifications specified in Steps 1 through 5 above will be either hand delivered to the employee with signed and dated receipt or sent by certified mail with a return receipt requested.
- c. Extension of time limits may be made by mutual consent. Such agreements should be put in writing, signed by both parties, and a copy filed at the next higher level. However, if the administrator fails to respond within the prescribed time limits where there has been no mutual extension, the grievance will automatically be processed to the next step. If the employee fails to appeal within the prescribed time limits when there has been no mutual extension, the grievance will be concluded.
- d. By written agreement between the administrator and the employee, one or more steps may be added or omitted in processing a grievance.
- e. A grievance may be dropped by the employee at any time by so designating to the administrator in writing.
- f. No retaliation shall be taken against any participants in the conciliation procedures by reason of such participation.
- g. In the event that grievance is initiated close to the end of a school year, every effort will be made to resolve the grievance prior to the end of said year.
- h. All parties shall have access to information reasonably necessary to the processing and determination of a pending grievance.
- i. All official records of the conciliation procedure shall be stored in the employee's personnel file at the conference or the office of the local entity. Access to these records by person or persons other than by parties to the grievance shall be by direct authorization of the appropriate committee/board.
- j. Formal transcription or electronic recording of the conciliation procedures shall occur only by written consent of all parties involved.
- k. Agreements, consents, or understandings must be in writing bearing the signature of the employee and the appropriate employing administrator.
- l. In the event there is a grievance which involves a number of employees, it may be submitted as a group grievance, with the employees involved being named in all appropriate correspondence.

As a general rule, no third parties shall be present during the conciliation process without mutual consent.

CONFLICT OF INTEREST AND/OR COMMITMENT

1. Definitions

Conflict of interest shall mean any circumstance under which an employee or volunteer by virtue of financial or other personal interest, present or potential, directly or indirectly, may be influenced or appear to be influenced by any motive or desire for personal advantage, tangible or intangible, other than the success and wellbeing of the denomination. Because of the common objectives embraced by the various organizational units and institutions of the Seventh day Adventist Church, membership held concurrently on more than one denominational committee or board does not of itself constitute a conflict of interest provided that all the other requirements of the policy are met.

A conflict of commitment shall mean any situation which interferes with an employee's ability to carry out his/her duties effectively. Elected, appointed, or salaried employees on full time assignment are compensated for full time employment; therefore, outside or dual employment or other activity, whether compensated or not, that in any way interferes with the performance of an employee's duties and responsibilities is a conflict of commitment. A conflict of commitment also exists in situations where an employee functions contrary to the values and ethical conduct outlined in the organization's statement of ethical foundations and conduct or when an employee functions contrary to established codes of ethical conduct for employees in particular professions (e.g. legal, investments).

2. Conditions Constituting Conflict

Educational employees in the Southern Union have a duty to be free from the influence of any conflicting interest or commitment when serving the organization or representing it in negotiations or dealings with third parties. Both while on and off the job an employee is expected to protect the best interests of the employing organization. The following list, though not exhaustive, describes circumstances and conditions that illustrate conflict of interest or commitment:

- c. Engaging in outside business or employment which permits encroachment on the organization's call for the full services of its employees even though there may not be any other conflict.
- d. Engaging in business with or employment by an employer that is in any way competitive or in conflict with any transaction, activity or objective of the organization.
- e. Engaging in any business with or employment by an employer that is a supplier of goods or services to the organization.
- f. Making use of the fact of employment by the organization to further outside business or employment, or associating the organization or its prestige with an outside business or employment.

- g. The ownership or leasing of any property with knowledge that the organization has an active or potential interest therein.
 - h. Lending money to or borrowing money from any third person who is a supplier of goods or services or a trustor or is in any fiduciary relationship with the organization or is otherwise regularly involved in business transactions with the organization.
 - i. The solicitation or acceptance of any gratuity, favor, benefit, or gift of greater than nominal value beyond the common courtesies usually associated with accepted business practice, or of any commission or payment of any sort of connection with work of the organization other than the compensation agreed upon between the organization and the employee.
 - j. Making use of or disseminating any confidential information acquired through employment by the organization for personal profit or advantage, directly or indirectly.
 - k. Using denominational personnel, property, equipment, supplies, or goodwill for other than approved activities, programs, and purposes.
 - l. Expending unreasonable time, during normal business hours, for personal affairs or for other organizations, to the detriment of work performance for the denomination.
3. Statement of Acceptance
- a. At the time of initial employment an employee shall sign a statement indicating acceptance of the conditions of employment as outlined in the organization's employee handbook. This acceptance shall constitute the employee's declaration of compliance and resolve to remain in compliance with the Conflict of Interest policy.
 - b. On an annual basis the employer shall provide all employees with a copy of the Statement of Ethical Foundations, plus a copy of the Conflict of Interest policy, and shall inform employees regarding the duty to disclose potential conflicts of interest. The chief administrator, or designee, of the organization concerned shall receive annually a statement of acceptance and compliance with the policy on Conflict of Interest from each employee, and any other person authorized to handle financial resources of the organization. Submission of the statement by persons identified above shall constitute a declaration of compliance with the policy and shall place the individual under obligation to disclose potential conflicts of interest and/or commitment that may arise during the ensuing year.
 - c. All statements of acceptance and compliance shall be reviewed annually through a process and reporting mechanism as determined by the board/executive committee of the organization.

LOCALLY FUNDED EMPLOYEES

While employees may be locally funded (i.e., their remuneration and benefits are funded by a local church or school), they are employed by the lowest level of employer in the Seventh-day Adventist Church structure, the Conference. As the lowest legal entity for employment, the local Conference is the employer for all employees within the Conference and its affiliated facilities and operations in all classifications.

All full-time Conference Funded and Conference Locally Funded employees will be eligible for health care benefits. No healthcare benefits will be available for part-time Conference Funded and part-time Conference Locally Funded employees.

Retirement benefits will be offered to eligible full-time Conference Funded and Conference Locally Funded employees with the basic employer contribution and the employee match up to the allowable amount. Effective July 1, 2011, retirement benefits will be offered to eligible part-time Conference Funded and Conference Locally Funded employees with no basic employer contribution, but with the employee match up to the allowable amount.

The local conference HR office should be contacted for additional guidelines and policies related to locally funded employees.

SUPPLEMENT A FAMILY AND MEDICAL LEAVE POLICY

In accordance with the Family and Medical Leave Act of 1993 (FMLA), the organization provides employees up to 12 weeks of unpaid, job-protected leave for certain family and medical reasons during a rolling, backward looking 12-month period.

I. Employee Eligibility

To be eligible for a leave under the FMLA an employee must:

- A. have been employed with the organization for at least 12 months, although it need not be consecutive; and
- B. have provided at least 1,250 hours of service during the 12-month period immediately preceding the date on which the leave is scheduled to begin.

II. Family and Medical Leave

A “Family and Medical Leave” shall be defined as an approved absence of an eligible employee for up to 12 weeks within a twelve-month period (calculated backwards from the date the FMLA leave begins), under particular circumstances that are critical to the life of a family. FMLA leave granted should be in harmony with state and municipal laws and regulations. Absences during official school closure or vacation time of one week or more should not be counted as leave. Eligible employees are entitled to take Family and Medical Leave for the following reasons:

- A. Incapacity due to pregnancy, prenatal medical care, or childbirth.
 - 1. Pregnancy leave shall be granted on the same basis as extended sick leave in accordance with the Sick Leave policy and Paid Leave policy.
 - 2. Eligible employees seeking pregnancy leave are to request Family and Medical Leave.
 - 3. The beginning date and duration of the pregnancy leave shall be in harmony with the advice of the attending physician.
 - 4. Once leave has been completed, the employee must submit a certification from the physician or health care provider that the employee is able to resume work and perform the essential job duties.
- B. To care for the employee’s child after birth or placement for adoption or foster care.
 - 1. Leave for the birth, adoption or placement of a child in foster care must be taken in a continuous time period and may not be taken in intermittent periods or on a reduced work schedule.
 - 2. This category of child care leave must be completed within 12 months after the birth, adoption or placement of the child.
- C. The employee’s own “serious health condition” which makes him or her unable to perform the functions of the job.
 - 1. Absences for job-related injuries or illnesses under a workers’ compensation plan will also be considered Family and Medical Leave, provided that the injury or illness constitutes a “serious health condition,” and meets FMLA eligibility requirements.

2. Employees on Family and Medical Leave for job-related illness or injury and receiving worker's compensation lost wage benefits are not eligible to use their vacation, sick leave, or other paid benefits.
 3. Leave for a serious health condition may be taken when certified by a health care provider.
 4. Leave may be taken in a continuous time period, on an intermittent basis, or through a reduced work schedule.
 5. Leave for an employee's serious health condition is permitted only for the period of actual medically - required absence.
- D. Care of a spouse, child or parent who has a "serious health condition".
- a. Leave for a serious health condition may be taken when certified by a health care provider to care for a "family member" (the employee's spouse, child, or parent, but not a parent-in-law).
 - b. Leave to care for a family member suffering from a serious health condition may be taken in a continuous time period, on an intermittent basis, or through a reduced work schedule.
 - c. Leave for the serious health condition of a family member is permitted only for the period of the actual medically required absence.

A healthcare provider is defined as a doctor of medicine or osteopathy who is authorized to practice medicine or surgery by the state in which he or she practices and anyone determined by the Secretary of Labor to be capable of providing health care services (such as podiatrists, dentists, clinical psychologists, optometrists, and chiropractors).

For the purpose of this policy, a "serious health condition" means an illness, injury, impairment or physical/mental condition that involves inpatient care in a hospital, hospice or residential medical care facility, or continuing treatment by a healthcare provider as defined in the FMLA. Ordinarily, unless complications arise, the common cold, flu, earaches, upset stomach, ulcers, headaches (other than migraines) and routine dental or orthodontia problems are examples of conditions that DO NOT constitute a serious health condition and do not qualify for Family and Medical Leave.

A serious health condition includes, but is not limited to:

- A. Overnight stay in a hospital, hospice or residential medical facility; or
- B. Any period of incapacity or subsequent treatment in connection with an overnight stay in the type of facility listed above.
- C. A period of absence or incapacity of more than three (3) consecutive calendar days relating to the same medical condition that involves treatment two or more times by a health care provider, or one treatment by a health care provider that results in a supervised regimen of continuing treatment; or
- D. Any period of incapacity caused by pregnancy or for prenatal care; or
- E. Any period of incapacity or treatment because of a chronic serious health condition; or
- F. Any period of incapacity for a permanent or long-term condition for which the employee or a family member is under the continuing supervision of a health care provider; or

- G. Absence to receive multiple treatments by or under the supervision, orders or referral of a health care provider for restorative surgery after an accident or injury or for a condition that would likely result in a period of incapacity of more than three (3) consecutive calendar days in the absence of medical intervention or treatment.

For the purposes of this policy, “son or daughter” are limited to children under age 18. However, an adult child (age 18 or older) also qualifies as a “son or daughter” if he or she (i) has a mental or physical disability, as defined under the Americans with Disabilities Act, as amended (ADA); (ii) is incapable of self-care because of that disability; (iii) has a serious health condition; and (iv) is in need of care due to a serious health condition. FMLA military leaves have specific definitions of son or daughter that are unique to those provisions.

Eligible employees may take Family and Medical Leave for any combination of these reasons, but the total of all combined leaves for each employee is limited to 12 weeks within the applicable 12-month period.

Eligibility requirements for military-related leave are set out at page ____.

Spouses who are both employed by the Conference are limited to a combined total of 12 weeks leave under the FMLA within the “rolling” 12-month period for the birth or placement of a son or daughter.

III. Employee Notification of Leave to Conference

A. Absences that are Foreseeable

Where the need for a Family and Medical Leave (including an intermittent or reduced work schedule leave) is foreseeable (such as, for example, planned surgery), employees must provide the organization with a 30-day prior notice of their absence. If a 30-day prior notice is not practicable because of unforeseen circumstances, notice of the leave must be given as soon as practicable (usually within two business days after the leave begins). The notice should include the reasons for the requested leave, the anticipated duration of the leave, and the anticipated start date of the leave.

If an employee fails to give timely advance notice when the need for leave is foreseeable, the organization may deny the leave until the 30-day notice is given. This 30-day notice requirement does not apply to qualifying exigency leave for a military servicemember. However, the employee must give the organization notice of his or her need for FMLA qualifying exigency leave as soon as practicable. If the employee give the organization less than 30 days’ advance notice of the need for foreseeable Family and Medical Leave, the employee will be required to explain why it was not practicable to give 30 days’ notice.

B. Absences that are Unforeseeable

If 30 days’ prior notice is not practicable because of unforeseen circumstances, then notice of the leave must be given as soon as practicable. This means that the employee must (i) give the organization notice on the same day the employee learns of the need for leave, or on the next business day, and (ii) give the organization notice in accordance with the organization’s call-in procedures for reporting an absence. The notice should include the reasons for the requested leave, the anticipated start date of the leave and the anticipated duration of the leave.

C. Reporting Absences to the Organization

Employees must comply with the organization’s usual procedures and time requirements for calling in absences and requesting leave. When the need for unforeseeable medical leave arises, the employee may provide notice to the appropriate office either in person, by telephone, fax or any other electronic means. Notice may also be provided by an employee’s spouse or responsible family member in the event that the employee cannot provide notification personally. If the employee fail to follow the organization’s established call-in procedures (absent unusual circumstances) or timely notify the organization regarding an absence, the Family and Medical Leave may be delayed or denied by the organization. If the Family and Medical Leave is denied or delayed, the employee's absence may be unprotected and treated as unexcused ("no call-no show").

IV. Designation of Family and Medical Leave

The organization will notify the employee in writing or electronically whether the absence qualifies as Family and Medical Leave under this policy, provide the employee with information regarding his or her FMLA rights and responsibilities, and identify and provide the employee with any certification required to support the request for leave. The employee is obligated to provide any required certification to the organization within 15 days. Once the organization receives a complete and sufficient certification from the employee, the organization will notify the employee whether his or her absence will be designated as Family and Medical Leave. If the employee's absence is designated as Family and Medical Leave, the organization will inform the employee of the amount of leave, effective from the first day of absence, that will be counted against the employee's Family and Medical Leave entitlement. If the organization does not have the information from the employee needed to designate the leave as FMLA before or at the time leave commences, it may retroactively designate the leave as FMLA-qualifying upon obtaining such information. If the required information is never provided in response to the organization's reasonable requests, the organization may deny Family and Medical Leave.

V. Reassignment During Family and Medical Leave

If Family and Medical Leave is taken on an intermittent basis or reduced work schedule for foreseeable and planned medical treatment of the employee or a family member or eligible care related to military personnel, the organization may transfer the employee during the Family and Medical Leave to an alternative position with equal pay and benefits which better accommodates the intermittent or recurring leave.

VI. Scheduling Medical Appointments

If the Family and Medical Leave is foreseeable and for planned medical treatment of the employee's or family member's serious health condition, the employee must make a reasonable effort to schedule the medical treatment so as to not disrupt the organization operations.

VII. Medical Certifications

A. Initial Certification:

Employees requesting Family and Medical Leave because of their own or a family member's serious health condition must provide Human Resource Services with complete and sufficient medical certification from a health care provider on the form provided by the organization. When the need for a leave is foreseeable and 30 days' notice to the organization has been provided, the employee must complete and return the medical certification before commencement of the leave. However, when the need for leave is not foreseeable, complete and sufficient certification must be completed and returned to the organization within 15 days. The organization may also require that the employee's health care provider designate the essential job functions which cannot be performed as a result of the employee's serious health condition.

If the employee's certification is incomplete or insufficient, the organization will notify the employee in writing of the deficiencies and the employee will be given 7 days to submit a complete and sufficient certification. If certification deficiencies are not corrected, the employee's Family and Medical Leave may be denied, any absences considered unexcused and the employee will be subject to disciplinary action, up to and including termination.

If an employee fails to return the completed medical certification within 15 days and has no reasonable excuse, the organization will not consider the absence to be Family and Medical Leave and the employee will be subject to disciplinary action, up to and including termination, for unexcused absences.

If the organization has reason to doubt the validity of the medical certification, it may require (at the organization's expense) that the employee obtain a second opinion from a health care provider designated by the organization. If there is a conflict between the first and second opinions, the organization may also require (at its expense) a third opinion by a health care provider designated jointly by the organization and the employee. The opinion provided by the third health care provider is final.

B. Recertifications During the Leave

Employees are also required to provide recertification from their health care provider (at the employee's expense) every 30 days or the minimum duration of the incapacity or treatment, whichever is greater. If the period of incapacity is for more than 6 months or an indefinite period, the employee will be required to submit a recertification every 6 months. The organization may also require re-certifications when:

1. the employee requests an extension of leave, or
2. the circumstances set out in the original medical certification change significantly, or
3. the organization receives information that casts doubt on the continuing validity of the medical certification.

If the recertification is not submitted to the organization within 15 days of the request, or as soon as practicable, the organization may deny Family and Medical Leave protection until the recertification is considered submitted. If the employee fails to provide the required recertification, his or her absence will not be protected Family and Medical Leave and the employee will be subject to disciplinary action, up to and including termination, for an unexcused absence.

Employees on Family and Medical Leave may also be required to periodically report to the organization (every 30 days) regarding their intent to return to work upon completion of the leave. If an employee gives unequivocal notice that he or she does not intend to return to work, the employee's leave, entitlement to reinstatement, medical benefits, and employment with the organization will be terminated.

C. Return to Work: Fitness for Duty Certification

Before being reinstated from leave, an employee must submit a medical certification that he or she is fit for duty and able to perform the essential functions of the position, with or without accommodation. The employee's health care provider(s) may also be required to designate the essential job functions, if any, that cannot be performed at the time the employee requests reinstatement. Employees will not be reinstated until this certification is received by the organization.

Information concerning an employee's medical condition or history will not be kept with other employee information and reasonable effort will be made to limit access to and maintain confidentiality of the employee's medical information.

VIII. Reinstatement from Family and Medical Leave

If an employee is medically released (full or partial) by a health care provider, he or she must report to the organization by the next working day after being released. Failure to timely report to the organization after being released by the health care provider will subject the employee to dismissal.

The organization will reinstate employees from Family and Medical Leave to their former position provided that the employee seeks reinstatement on or before the expiration of 12 cumulative weeks of leave and can perform the essential job duties (with or without reasonable accommodation). If the employee's former position is not available, the employee will be reinstated to an equivalent position. The organization may make an exception regarding reinstatement of certain highly-compensated salaried employees ("key employees"). Refusing an offer of reinstatement to an equivalent position will be treated as a voluntary resignation of employment. The organization shall notify key employees regarding these limitations on a case-by-case basis.

Employees who do not return to work after 12 cumulative weeks of Family and Medical Leave will be dismissed from employment unless the employee has applied for and has been granted an extension of leave as a reasonable accommodation under the Americans With Disabilities Act (ADA). If an employee is dismissed under this policy, he or she will remain eligible to re-apply for future employment by submitting an application to the organization.

IX. Benefits During Leave

Benefit entitlements based upon length of service will be calculated as of the last paid day prior to the start of the unpaid leave of absence. If an employee has accumulated vacation time, administrative time off (ATO), and/or time in the long-term sick bank, the organization requires that the employee use the paid benefits during an Family and Medical Leave under the organization's policies until the benefits are exhausted, unless state law allows otherwise. The remainder of the Family and Medical Leave would be unpaid. The use of paid benefits will not extend the duration of an Family and Medical Leave. An employee may not receive more than one hundred percent (100%) of regular wages during leave from any combination of employment benefits (e.g.; vacation, sick leave, etc.)

Coverage under the Health Care Assistance Plan will remain in effect during leave if the employee pays his or her portion of plan premiums (opt-in charges). The premiums will be deducted from paid benefits used during the Family and Medical Leave. If paid benefits are not available during the Family and Medical Leave, the employee must arrange for payment of his or her portion of the plan premiums to continue coverage. Employees who fail to pay their portion of the plan premiums within 30 days of the due date will be dropped from coverage for the remainder of the Family and Medical Leave. If the organization pays an employee's portion of the Health Care Assistance Plan premiums while the employee is on Family and Medical Leave, the organization may be entitled to recover the cost of such premiums from the employee.

Benefits will not accrue during the unpaid portion of the approved Family and Medical Leave. However, an authorized Family and Medical Leave does not constitute a break in service. Benefit entitlements based upon length of service will be calculated as of the last paid day prior to the start of the unpaid leave.

X. Special Provisions for Instructional Employees

Instructional employees are those whose principal functions are teaching and instructing students in a class or other similar setting. Individuals fitting this description include teachers, athletic coaches, and special education assistants. It does not include teacher assistants or aides who do not have as their principal job actual teaching or instructing, nor does it include auxiliary personnel such as counselors, psychologists, or curriculum specialists.

If an instructional employee needs Family and Medical Leave on a reduced schedule or intermittent basis that is foreseeable for planned medical treatment and the teacher would be absent for more than 20 percent of the total number of working days over the period the leave would extend, the employer may require the instructional employee to choose to either (1) take leave for a period of a particular duration not greater than the duration of the planned medical treatment, or (2) temporarily transfer to an available alternative position with equivalent pay and benefits that would better accommodate the teacher's periods of absence. If the employee elects to take the leave for a period of particular duration, all of the leave counts against the instructional employee's Family and Medical Leave entitlement. In situations where leave is foreseeable, proper notice must be given to the employer or the employer may delay the taking of leave until proper notice is provided.

If an eligible instructional employee requests a Family and Medical Leave near the end of the academic term, the leave and reinstatement provisions of this policy will apply except under the following circumstances:

- A. If an instructional employee begins a Family and Medical Leave more than five weeks before the end of the academic term, the organization may require that the employee continue on leave until the end of the term if the leave will last at least three weeks and the employee would return to work during the final three weeks of the academic term.
- B. If an eligible instructional employee begins a leave for reasons other than the employee's own serious health condition within the five-week period before the end of the academic term, the organization may require that the employee continue on leave until the end of the term if the leave will last more than two weeks and the employee would return to work during the two weeks preceding the end of the academic term.
- C. If an eligible instructional employee begins a leave for reasons other than the employee's own serious health condition during the three-week period before the end of the academic term and will last more than five working days, the organization may require that the employee continue on leave until the end of the academic term.
- D. If leave taken is a period that ends with the school year and begins the next semester, leave is taken consecutively rather than intermittently. The period during summer vacation when the employee would not be required to report for duty is not counted against the employee's Family and Medical Leave entitlement.

If the employer requires the teacher to take leave beyond when the employee is ready and able to return to work, this leave cannot be counted against the teacher's 12-week Family and Medical Leave entitlement and the employer must also maintain the employee's health insurance coverage.

Instructional employees seeking reinstatement from an Family and Medical Leave will be returned to their former or equivalent position with equivalent pay, benefits, and other terms and conditions of employment based upon the established written policies and practices of the organization.

XI. Extension of Leave as a Reasonable Accommodation

Employees who exhaust Family and Medical Leave for their own serious health condition and need additional time off from work for medical treatment of their serious medical condition may qualify for a reasonable extension of leave under the ADA or other applicable laws.

To qualify for a reasonable extension of leave under the ADA, the employee must: (1) request the extension prior to exhaustion of his or her Family and Medical Leave; and (2) provide the organization with a written statement from the health care provider(s) confirming that:

- A. The employee has a physical or medical impairment that substantially limits a major life activity; and
- B. A supplemental leave for a specified duration will allow the employee to return to work and perform the essential function of the job.

In addition, there must be no other reasonable accommodation that would allow the employee to return to work and perform the essential functions of his or her job upon exhaustion of Family and Medical Leave.

The organization will evaluate timely requests submitted by employees on an individualized basis and grant reasonable extensions of leave in compliance with the ADA and other applicable laws.

XII. FMLA Military Leave

The FMLA Military Leave provisions entitle eligible employees with covered family members serving in the military to take two special types of leave:

A. Military Caregiver Leave

Military Caregiver Leave allows eligible employees up to 26 workweeks of job-protected leave in a single 12-month period to care for a covered servicemember who is undergoing medical treatment, recuperation or therapy, is on out-patient status or is on the temporary disabled retired list due to a serious injury or illness that occurred while on covered active duty in the Armed Forces. The employee must be the spouse, child, parent, or next of kin of the covered servicemember.

B. Qualifying Exigency Leave

Qualifying Exigency Leave allows an eligible employee whose spouse, child or parent is called up for deployment to a foreign country to take leave for certain “qualifying exigencies” related to their deployment.

For the purposes of FMLA Military Leaves, “son or daughter” means the employee’s biological, adopted, or foster child, stepchild, legal ward, or a child (regardless of age) for whom the employee stood in loco parentis, who is on covered active duty, regardless of the individual’s age.

“Covered active duty” means (a) in the case of a servicemember in the regular Armed Forces, duty during the deployment of the Armed Forces member to a foreign country; or (b) in the case of a servicemember in the reserve component of the Armed Forces (Army National Guard, Army Reserve, Navy Reserve, Marine Corps Reserve, Air National Guard, Air Force Reserve and Coast Guard Reserve) duty during deployment of the Armed Forces member to a foreign country under a call or order to covered active duty.

A “covered servicemember” means: (i) a member of the Armed Forces (including a member of the National Guard or Reserves) who is undergoing medical treatment, recuperation, or therapy, is otherwise in outpatient status, or is otherwise on the temporary disability retired list for a serious injury or illness; or (ii) covered veterans who are undergoing medical treatment, recuperation or therapy for a serious injury or illness and who were members of the Armed Forces (including a member of the National Guard or Reserves) at any time during the five years preceding the date on which the veteran undergoes the medical treatment, recuperation or therapy. The medical treatment, recuperation or therapy must be related to a serious injury or illness (i) which was incurred while in the line of duty on covered active duty in the Armed Forces or (ii) which existed before the beginning of military service, and which was aggravated by service in the line of duty while on covered active duty.

In the case of a member of the Armed Forces (including a member of the National Guard or Reserves), a “serious health condition” means an injury or illness that was incurred by the member in the line of duty on covered active duty in the Armed Forces (or existed before the beginning of the member’s covered active duty and was aggravated by service in the line of duty on covered active duty in the Armed Forces) and that may render the member medically unfit to perform the duties of the member’s office, grade, rank, or rating.

In the case of a veteran who was a member of the Armed Forces (including a member of the National Guard or Reserves), a “serious health condition” means an injury or illness that was incurred or aggravated by the member in the line of duty on active duty in the Armed Forces and manifested itself before or after the member became a veteran, and is: (1) the continuation of a serious injury or illness that was incurred or aggravated when the covered veteran was a member of the Armed Forces and which rendered the servicemember unable to perform the duties of the servicemember’s office, grade, rank, or rating; (2) a physical or mental condition for which the covered veteran has received a VA Service Related Disability Rating (VASRD) of 50 percent or greater and such VASRD rating is based, in whole or in part, on the condition precipitating the need for caregiver leave; (3) a physical or mental condition that substantially impairs the veteran’s ability to secure or follow a substantially gainful occupation by reason of a disability or disabilities related to military service or would do so absent treatment; or (4) an injury, including a psychological injury, for which the covered veteran has been enrolled in the Department of Veterans Affairs Program of Comprehensive Assistance for Family Caregivers.

Leave to care for a “covered servicemember” who has incurred an injury or illness in the line of duty may be taken for up to 26 workweeks during a 12-month period in a continuous time period, or in intermittent time periods or through a reduced work schedule.

The “single 12 month period” for leave to care for a covered servicemember with a serious injury or illness begins on the first day the employee takes leave for this reason and ends 12 months later.

A “qualifying exigency” means:

1. Short-notice deployment: Leave needed to address issues arising from an employee’s family member’s notification of an impending call or order to covered active duty 7 or fewer calendar days prior to the date of deployment—leave taken for this purpose can be used for a period of 7 calendar days beginning on the date of the military member’s notification.
2. Military events and related activities: Leave needed to attend official ceremonies, programs, or events sponsored by the military related to the covered active duty or call to covered active duty status of the employee’s family member; and to attend family support or assistance programs and informational briefings sponsored or promoted by the military, military service organizations, or the American Red Cross that are related to the covered active duty or call to covered active duty status of a family member.

3. Childcare and school activities: Leave needed to arrange for alternative childcare; to provide childcare on an urgent, immediate need basis (but not on a routine, regular, or everyday basis); to enroll a child in or transfer a child to a new school or day care facility; and to attend meetings with staff at a school or a daycare facility when such meetings are necessary.
4. Financial and legal arrangements: Leave needed to make or update financial or legal arrangements to address the family member's absence and to act as the family member's representative before a federal, state, or local agency for purposes of obtaining, arranging, or appealing military service benefits while the military member is on covered active duty or call to covered active duty status, and for 90 days following the termination of the military member's covered active duty status.
5. Counseling: Leave needed to attend counseling provided by someone other than a health care provider for the employee, a family member and/or a family member's child, provided that the need for counseling arises from the covered active duty or call to covered active duty status.
6. Rest and recuperation: Leave needed to spend time with a family member who is on short-term, temporary rest and recuperation leave during the period of deployment—up to fifteen days of leave may be taken for each instance.
7. Post-deployment activities: Leave needed to attend arrival ceremonies, reintegration briefings and events, and any other official ceremony or program sponsored by the military within 90 days following the termination of a family member's covered active duty status; or to address issues arising from the death of a family member while on covered active duty status.
8. Parental care: Leave needed to care for a military member's parent who is incapable of self-care and when the care is needed as a result of the member's covered active duty (e.g., arranging for alternative care, providing care on an immediate need basis, admitting or transferring the parent to a care facility, or attending meetings with staff at a care facility).
9. Additional activities: Leave needed to address other events arising out of the family member's covered active duty or call to covered active duty status, provided that the employee and the organization agree that the leave will qualify as an exigency and agree to both the timing and duration of the leave.

Leave for a "qualifying exigency" may be taken for up to 12 workweeks within a "rolling" 12-month period in a continuous time period, or in intermittent time periods or through a reduced work schedule.

The 30-day notice requirement for medical-related leaves does not apply to qualifying exigency leave for a military servicemember. However, employees must give the organization notice of the need for FMLA qualifying exigency leave as soon as practicable. In addition, the first time a FMLA Military Leave is requested, the employee will be required to provide a copy of the military member's covered active duty orders, or documentation of the call to covered active duty, and the dates of covered active duty service.

Leaves to care for an injured or ill servicemember, when combined with other types of FMLA-qualifying leave, may not exceed 26 workweeks during the single 12-month period. The amount of leave for which the employee is eligible may be reduced if the employee has taken other Family and Medical Leave during the 12 month period. For example, if an employee takes 10 weeks of Family and Medical Leave for his or her own serious health condition, the employee could still be able to take up to 16 weeks of FMLA Military Leave left to care for a covered servicemember.

If leave is taken on an intermittent basis or reduced work schedule to care for a military servicemember, the organization may transfer the employee during the leave to an alternative position with equal pay and benefits that better accommodates the intermittent or recurring leave schedule.

The same rules that apply to other Family and Medical Leaves also apply to FMLA Military Leave under the FMLA. The employee is required to complete the required certifications applicable to this type of leave within 15 days of requesting FMLA Military Leave.
